State Asks Bids for Route 22 Rebuilding

WORK TO START IN OCTOBER ON MAJOR PROJECT

Jaster To Let Contract Sept. 23 for $324,976 Construction Job

280 DAYS TO BE REQUIRED

Efforts Of County Seat's Civic Organizations Bear Fruit

Rebuilding Route 22 immediately west of the Scioto river bridge is on the calendar of the state highway department with work expected to start in October. The project, which will require 280 working days and which will cost $324,976 84, is expected to end high water trouble that annually blocks traffic between Circleville and villages and cities to the west.

John J. Jaster, Jr., state director of highways, will open bids Friday, Sept. 23, at 10 a. m. in his office in Columbus.

The department's plans call for improvement by grading, constructing drainage structures, paving with reinforced concrete concrete slabs and concrete continuous concrete slab bridges on piling substructures over the Scioto river overflow.

New Paving 20 Feet

The improvement will be 1.376 miles in length with the new pavement to be 20 feet wide on a road-way of 40 feet. All the work will be in Wayne township.

Circleville civic organizations have been campaigning for the improvement for many years because at least once, and sometimes two or three times each year, business from the western part of the city's trading area is impaired because of flood waters from the Scioto. The state department has spent many thousands of dollars for temporary improvements in the highway, always having to add more repairs after the next high water.

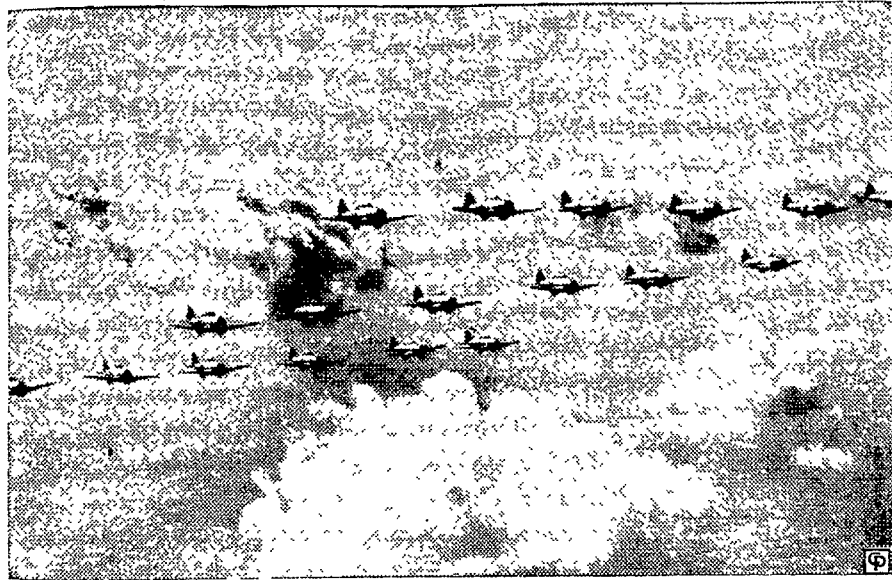

Traffic to be Detoured

Traffic over Route 22 will be detoured through Fox, it is believed, during the reconstruction work. The project is expected to require from 10 to 11 months.

All unskilled labor for the road building will be obtained from the lists kept by the United States Employment Service, Chillicothe, which serves Pickaway county. All unemployed from this community who have not already done so should register with the N.R.S.

The project has received support from state highway department officials of the county and from Frank Turner, engineer for Division No. 6 with offices in Delaware.

WHEAT EXPORT SUBSIDY GOES INTO OPERATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(UP)—The Federal Surplus Commodity corporation announced today that it had placed the wheat export subsidy into operation through the sale of 451,000 bushels to exporters.

The corporation took a loss of four cents a bushel on 235,000 bushels sold to Pacific coast exporters and seven cents a bushel on 216,000 bushels sold to Gulf coast exporters.

F. R. Wilcox, manager of the export program, did not reveal the price paid for the wheat or the price at which it was sold. He said he did not know to which countries the wheat would be sold by the exporters.

The corporation will continue active in the domestic market, purchasing wheat at prevailing prices, he said. The corporation hopes to finance the sale of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad at a cost of not more than $12,500,000.

MOTOR TROUBLE DELAYS START OF TRIAL IN COURT

Motor trouble that developed in the auto of J. B. Hill, Orient, witness for the state, delayed opening of the trial of James Davis, Orient, until about 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Davis is charged with breaking and entering the Orient Grain Co. operated by Hill. Four witnesses were subpoenaed by the state, seven by the defense.

Jurors selected are Mary McKenzie, Pickaway township; Marian Radcliff, Deer Creek township; Clem Rittinger, Wayne township; Hulda Leist, Mrs. Jerome Warner, Kenneth Wertman and Mrs. Harry Rife, Washington township; Mrs. Dewey Downs, Darby township; Orville Raser, Scioto township; Thomas McKinley, Muhlenberg township; and Mrs. Claude Kraft and Mrs. Carrie Kindler, Circleville.

KIN TO SHARE IN WILLIS WITTICH'S $27,500 ESTATE

Will of Willis Wittich, S. Court street, admitted to probate Tuesday, leaves his estate in equal shares to his brothers, Edward and Frank, his sisters, Mrs. Rose C. Gamble and Ella W. Mearns, all of Circleville, and his niece Mrs. Helen K. Wittich Weart, of Cherokee, Ia.

The estate is valued at $27,500, of which personal property is listed at $20,000.

After making a number of bequests of personal property, the will of Mrs. Lela M. Moon, New Holland, admitted to probate Tuesday, leaves the balance of the personal property and real estate to her brother, Clyde R. Sapp, of Terrace Park, O. The estate is estimated at $12,550 in personal property and $3,000 in real estate.

LEGION TO PREPARE FOR ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Appointment of a nominating committee for new officers of the Howard Hall post, American Legion, will be made by D. A. Yates, commander, at the regular meeting of the post to be held Sept. 14.

Beginning in September the Legion will hold two meetings monthly, the second and fourth Wednesday of each month. During the summer only one meeting was held each month.

Present officers of the post in addition to Mr. Yates are Herschel Beckett, commander; T. E. Wilson, second vice commander; James Shea, adjutant, and James Cook, chaplain, the latter thru Circleville.

TOKYO WARNED OF TYPHOON ON WAY TO CAPITAL

TOKYO, Aug. 31—(UP)—The weather bureau warned tonight that a strong typhoon was approaching Tokyo after lashing the Izu islands, and was expected here in full force by early morning.

Wind and lashing rain drove pedestrians from the streets. Radios were paging fishing boats to learn what had happened to the islands and whether fishermen were lost.

Liners and freighters were warned to remain in Yokohama and Tokyo harbors until the storm passes. The typhoon was frequently changing its direction.

Tomorrow is the 210th day under the old calendar. Tradition says that if it is stormy, crop failure always follows. The populace was accordingly greatly worried.

CUSTER TO HEAD SAWYER'S CLUB; MEETING CALLED

A Pickaway county organization to promote the campaign of Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, nominee for governor, will be perfected at a meeting in the Common Pleas courtroom at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Bryan J. Custer, W. Franklin street, who directed the Sawyer primary campaign, locally, has been designated as chairman of the Pickaway County Sawyer-for-Governor Club. Other officers are expected to be named. Custer's appointment was made by state Sawyer headquarters.

MINIATURE DUST STORM STRIKES CENTER OF CITY

Circleville had a miniature dust storm in the main square, Wednesday, when sand blasters started cleaning the stone of the First National bank building. If weather conditions permit, the work will be completed in three or four days.

JAPS SCOFF AT U. S. PROTEST OF AIRLINER ATTACK

TOKYO, Aug. 31—(UP)—Japan rejected today the United States protest against the "unwarranted attack" on a Chinese commercial airplane by Japanese naval planes.

The reply expressed "regrets" that the pilot, Capt. Hugh L. Wood of Winfield, Kan., was endangered in the attack, but expressed belief that the Chinese owners of the plane had "jurisdiction over his person" and for that reason the incident did not involve Japan and any foreign power.

The commercial airliner acted "suspiciously like a military craft," the reply said, and because it was operating within the war zone marked by the Japanese high command the naval planes pursued it as an enemy craft.

The spokesman for the foreign office said that the protest was rejected on factual grounds. The plane, owned by the China National Aviation Corp., in which Pan American Airways has a substantial interest, was forced into a crash landing in the Pearl river near Macao on August 24. At least 12 Chinese passengers were drowned. Pilot Wood escaped injury.

FOUR SURVIVORS OF PEN SCALDING GIVE TESTIMONY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31—(UP)—A coroner's inquest was opened today to fix responsibility for the heat deaths of four convicts in the punishment cells at the county prison.

Convicts who survived the roasting will testify that they prayed on their knees to guards to turn off the steam heat or shoot them and end their agony; that they had cried for their mothers and wives; and that they had eaten their own flesh, finally dropped, overcome by the stench and the steam heat.

Three convicts gave a preliminary account of the tortures yesterday in Magistrate Nathan Biebel's court, where two guards, charged with murder, were arraigned.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch said that the charges against the two guards, Alfred W. Brough and Francis Smith, were only the beginning, and that by the time the inquest was over he expected to have "six or eight" persons under arrest, including an "official" of the prison.

Magistrate Biebel ruled that a "prima facie case of homicide" already had been proved against the two guards, whom he ordered held without bail.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Circleville council will meet as a committee at 8 p. m. Wednesday for a discussion of the type of charges to be made for operation of the disposal plant, now under construction.

ANOTHER GREAT CROWD PRESENT FOR STATE FAIR

Officials Expect 75,000 Visitors By Nightfall At Exposition

CONTEST FINALS HELD

Laurelville's Juveniles Rank Fourth; Mansfield Youths In First

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31—(UP)—Gates of the Ohio State fairgrounds were closed to automobile traffic at 9:45 a. m. today because of the large crowd which had arrived by that hour. Fair officials predicted an attendance of 75,000 by nightfall.

B. B. Vance, head gateman, who has been connected with the fair for 35 years, said it was the earliest hour for closing the grounds to automobiles in history.

It was farm organization day at the fair.

During swine judging in the coliseum today, two large hogs began to fight, with Richard W. Harlow, 25, vocational agriculture teacher of Edinburg, Ind., caught in the middle. Harlow received one tusk bite on the leg, requiring one stitch. The hogs were separated.

The weatherman has cooperated so well that thus far not a drop of rain has fallen here since the fair began last week. There are two more days to go.

The heavyweight horse-pulling contest attracted many to the grandstand to see some of the nation's best teams in action today. The lightweight contest yesterday.

DAVIS, SCHULTZ ATTORNEY, SAYS HINES PLOTTER

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(UP)—J. Richard (Dickie) Davis, the states' star witness against James J. Hines, testified today that the Tammany leader attended a meeting with Dutch Schultz, Davis, and other members of the Schultz racket gang in October, 1932.

That was shortly after Schultz had forced the Harlem lottery operators into one combination. Schultz took most of the profits and, so the state charged, paid Hines $500 a week for political protection.

Davis, then only six years out of law school, already had become Schultz's "mouthpiece" and helped forge the lottery combination.

Sometime in October, 1932, he related, Schultz called a meeting that Hines attended. Schultz, Davis and a man named Rosenthal drove to the meeting and picked up Hines in their automobile along Sixth avenue.

Davis said that Schultz introduced him to Davis with "Jimmy, this is Dickie Davis."

TWO STREETS IN SOUTHEAST OPEN WEDNESDAY EVE

Two improved streets in the southeast of the city will be opened to traffic Wednesday evening.

L. E. Miller, service director, said that Washington street from Franklin street to Town street, and Mill street from Scioto street to the Eschelman mill have been completed. Both of these streets have been reconditioned and resurfaced. Work was started Wednesday on the improvement of N. Pickaway street from the Hargus creek bridge to Berger hospital.

Recent dry weather has been ideal for resurfacing the streets,

Europe Relaxes As Tension Over War Fear Eases

BY UNITED PRESS

Great Britain pushed to within grasp of victory today in its diplomatic war to keep the peace of Europe.

For the moment, at least, there was a relaxation of tension over the Czechoslovakian minority crisis which for a week plagued European capitals with the threat of an early clash between Nazis and Czechs. Hope grew that Germany was convinced she had lost any immediate war before it began.

The basic problem remained unsolved; the German press continued hostile; British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson flew back to Berlin with new instructions and may see Fuehrer Adolf Hitler Friday to re-emphasize that a sudden blow against the Czechs probably means a new World War whereas cooperation could mean peaceful solution of the quarrel.

Danger Not So Great

But when British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain went to Balmoral to see King George he was able to report that the dangers were not so great as last week-end.

The reason Chamberlain could make such a report was that the British government had adapted itself to the modern totalitarian theory of undeclared war—and in fact improved on the technique in behalf of peace. Actually, Chamberlain rallied all of the so-called democratic nations to fight a "shadow war" in the diplomatic field to persuade Hitler that the Nazis were sure to lose.

Whether this preview of the next World War will long delay the actual conflict remains to be seen, but the immediate results were to demonstrate to Germany that:

Czechoslovakia would fight back and France would go to her aid. Soviet Russia would keep her pact to aid the Czechs. Under those circumstances Britain could not reasonably keep out, while the smaller European nations would merely wait to see which way the British turned before going the same way. Italy would remain neutral if possible.

Most keenly illustrative of this powerful ring drawn by Britain to discourage a Nazi explosion was newspaper comment in Poland, which recently has been trying to play both sides of the fence.

"Germany has lost the war before it has begun," remarked the Warsaw newspaper Ilustrowany Kuryer Codzienny. "The attitudes of France, Great Britain and the United States show that Germany is entirely isolated. Germany cannot risk war in this isolation, nor can she start one; and this isolation works for peace."

FARMER FIRES HIS SHOTGUN AT CHICKEN THIEF

A chicken thief who escaped from the farm of J. C. Shannon, east of Duvall, Tuesday night, is believed nursing gunshot wounds. Members of the sheriff's department made a speedy trip to the Shannon farm about 10 p. m. Tuesday following the report that an employee on the farm had fired a shotgun at a man raiding the henhouse. The invader escaped in a cornfield.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the farm laborer was uncertain whether the charge had struck the man. No chickens were missing, the sheriff said.

Two probable stock thefts are under investigation by the sheriff's department.

C. H. Rihl, who resides one mile west of Grange Hall, notified the department Wednesday that a Guernsey cow and a small Jersey calf were missing from his farm.

The department has been notified by Guy Heffner, Salt Creek township, that a cow and calf is missing from his property.

PERKINS, DIES IN CONTROVERSY

Labor Secretary Rejects Demands To Deport Harry Bridges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(UP)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins curtly rejected today demands of Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., of the house committee investigating un-American activities that the Department of Labor at once begin deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, Pacific coast director of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Citing a fifth U. S. Circuit court of appeals ruling that membership in the communist party was not grounds for deportation, Miss Perkins rebuked Dies as a legislator for attempting to usurp administration functions and duties of the federal government.

Dies, enroute to Texas for a vacation, issued a statement through his office here, saying, that all he asked was that Miss Perkins "enforce the law."

"It is laughable," he said, "for a member of an executive department, especially Miss Perkins, to complain that a congressional committee was trying to usurp the functions of a government department. All that I am asking as a member of congress is that she enforce the law in the Bridges case, which she has not done to this date."

"I congratulate the people of South Carolina in again reaffirming their allegiance and loyalty to the real principles of democracy for state rights and local self government," he told his radio audience.

To the Red Shirts, he said: "I am glad to see that the spirit of the heroes who wore the red shirt is not dead in South Carolina and that the spirit of individuality still lives."

With only 156 of the total of 1,308 precincts missing the tabulation stood—

Smith, 152,682 Johnston, 124,396

Smith apparently carried 36 counties, Johnston 10 counties.

Returns from practically two-thirds of the California's 12,435 precincts showed Downey, Sacramento attorney and one time leader in Upton Sinclair's epic movement, was more than 30,000 votes ahead of the 74-year-old McAdoo who had been favored to win 2 to 1 because of the President's activity in his behalf.

West Coast Solon Crushed By Loss; All Returns Not Yet Talled

BY UNITED PRESS

One senatorial candidate backed by President Roosevelt was defeated and another trailed today in incomplete returns from yesterday's primaries in South Carolina, and California.

In South Carolina, the veteran senator, Ellison D. (Cotton) Ed Smith, twice attacked inferentially by Mr. Roosevelt as a foe of the New Deal, defeated the "100 percent" New Dealer, Gov. Olin D. Johnston.

In California, Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and beneficiary of a Roosevelt endorsement, was behind Sheridan Downey, a New Dealer and an advocate of an unusual old age pension plan.

Denounced by Mr. Roosevelt as a foe of progress and reform, Smith's margin was expected to be over 30,000 votes when all precincts are counted.

Johnston Silent

Johnston, refusing to concede, remained closeted with his closest advisers in the state house until after midnight, then went to bed without making a statement.

By contrast, the 72 year old Smith, a member of the senate since 1908, was lively and overjoyed. A little after midnight he went on the air and thanked the people for "this overwhelming victory."

Then he put on a bright red shirt and addressed the similarly shirted members of a revival of the oldest "shirt" organization in the country.

"I congratulate the people of South Carolina in again reaffirming their allegiance and loyalty to the real principles of democracy for state rights and local self government," he told his radio audience.

To the Red Shirts, he said: "I am glad to see that the spirit of the heroes who wore the red shirt is not dead in South Carolina and that the spirit of individuality still lives."

State Asks Bids for Route 22 Rebuilding

WORK TO START IN OCTOBER ON MAJOR PROJECT

Jaster To Let Contract Sept. 23 for $324,976 Construction Job

280 DAYS TO BE REQUIRED

Efforts Of County Seat's Civic Organizations Bear Fruit

Rebuilding Route 22 immediately west of the Scioto river bridge is on the calendar of the state highway department with work expected to start in October. The project, which will require 280 working days and which will cost $324,976.84, is expected to end high water trouble that annually blocks traffic between Circleville and villages and cities to the West.

John J. Jaster, Jr., state director of highways, will open bids Friday, Sept. 23, at 10 a. m. in his office in Columbus.

The department's plans call for improvement by grading, constructing drainage structures, paving with reinforced concrete concrete constructing three continuous concrete slab bridges on piling substructures over the Scioto river overflow.

New Paving 20 Feet

The improvement will be 1,376 miles in length with the new pavement to be 20 feet wide on a roadway of 40 feet. All the work will be in Wayne township.

Circleville civic organizations have been campaigning for the improvement for many years because at least once, and sometimes two or three times each year, business from the western part of the city's trading area is impaired because of flood waters from the Scioto. The state department has spent many thousands of dollars for temporary improvements in the highway, always having to add more repairs after the next high water.

Traffic over Route 22 will be detoured through Fox, it is believed, during the reconstruction work. The project is expected to require from 10 to 11 months.

L. E. Miller, service director, said that Washington street, from Franklin street to Town street, and Mill street from Scioto street to the Eschelman mill have been completed. Both of these streets have been reconditioned and resurfaced. Work was started Wednesday on the improvement of N. Pickaway street from the Hargus creek bridge to Berger hospital.

Recent dry weather has been ideal for resurfacing the streets.

Europe Relaxes As Tension Over War Fear Eases

Great Britain pushed to within grasp of victory today in its diplomatic war to keep the peace of Europe.

For the moment, at least, there was a relaxation of tension over the Czechoslovakian minority crisis which for a week plagued European capitals with the threat of an early clash between Nazis and Czechs. Hope grew that Germany was convinced she had lost any immediate war before it began.

The basic problem remained unsolved; the German press continued hostile; British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson flew back to Berlin with new instructions and may see Fuehrer Adolf Hitler Friday to re-emphasize that a sudden blow against the Czechs probably means a new World War whereas cooperation could mean peaceful solution of the quarrel.

Danger Not So Great

But when British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain went to Balmoral to see King George he was able to report that the dangers were not so great as last week.

The reason Chamberlain could make such a report was that the British government had adapted itself to the modern totalitarian theory of undeclared war—and in fact improved on the technique in behalf of peace. Actually, Chamberlain rallied all of the so-called democratic nations to fight a "shadow war" in the diplomatic field to persuade Hitler that the Nazis were sure to lose.

Whether this preview of the next World War will long delay the actual conflict remains to be seen, but the immediate results were to demonstrate to Germany that:

Czechoslovakia would fight back and France would go to her aid. Soviet Russia would keep her pact to aid the Czechs. Under those circumstances Britain could not reasonably keep out, while the smaller European nations would merely wait to see which way the British turned before going the same way. Italy would remain neutral if possible.

Most keenly illustrative of this powerful ring drawn by Britain to discourage a Nazi explosion was newspaper comment in Poland, which recently has been trying to play both sides of the fence.

"Germany has lost the war before it has begun," remarked the Warsaw newspaper Ilustrowany Kuryer Codzieny. "The attitudes of France, Great Britain and the United States show that Germany is entirely isolated. Germany cannot risk war in this isolation, nor can she start one; and this isolation works for peace."

FARMER FIRES HIS SHOTGUN AT CHICKEN THIEF

A chicken thief who escaped from the farm of J. C. Shannon, east of Duvall, Tuesday night, is believed nursing gunshot wounds. Members of the sheriff's department made a speedy trip to the Shannon farm about 10 p. m. Tuesday following the report that an employee on the farm had fired a shotgun at a man raiding the henhouse. The invader escaped in a cornfield.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the farm laborer was uncertain whether the charge had struck the man. No chickens were missing, the sheriff said.

Two probable stock thefts are under investigation by the sheriff's department.

C. H. Rihl, who resides one mile west of Grange Hall, notified the department Wednesday that a Guernsey cow and a small Jersey calf were missing from his farm.

The department has been notified by Guy Heffner, Salt Creek township, that a cow and calf is missing from his property.

CAROLINA VOTES AGAINST PURGE OF SENATOR, 72

California Ballot In Favor Of Downey, Upton Sinclair, Aide Proves Surprise

ROOSEVELT LOSING TWICE

West Coast Solon Crushed By Loss; All Returns Not Yet Talled

BY UNITED PRESS

One senatorial candidate backed by President Roosevelt was defeated and another trailed today in incomplete returns from yesterday's primaries in South Carolina and California.

In South Carolina, the veteran senator, Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith, twice attacked inferentially by Mr. Roosevelt as a foe of the New Deal, defeated the "100 percent" New Dealer, Gov. Olin D. Johnston.

In California, Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and beneficiary of a Roosevelt endorsement, was behind Sheridan Downey, a New Dealer and an advocate of an unusual old age pension plan.

Denounced by Mr. Roosevelt as a foe of progress and reform, Smith's margin was expected to be over 30,000 votes when all precincts are counted.

Johnston Silent

Johnston, refusing to concede, remained closeted with his closest advisers in the state house until after midnight, then went to bed without making a statement.

By contrast, the 72 year old Smith, a member of the senate since 1908, was lively and overjoyed. A little after midnight he went on the air and thanked the people for "this overwhelming victory."

Then he put on a bright red shirt and addressed the similarly shirted members of a revival of the oldest "shirt" organization in the country.

"I congratulate the people of South Carolina in again reaffirming their allegiance and loyalty to the real principles of democracy for state rights and local self government," he told his radio audience.

To the Red Shirts, he said: "I am glad to see that the spirit of the heroes who wore the red shirt is not dead in South Carolina and that the spirit of individuality still lives."

With only 156 of the total of 1,508 precincts missing the tabulation stood:

Smith, 152,682
Johnston, 124,396

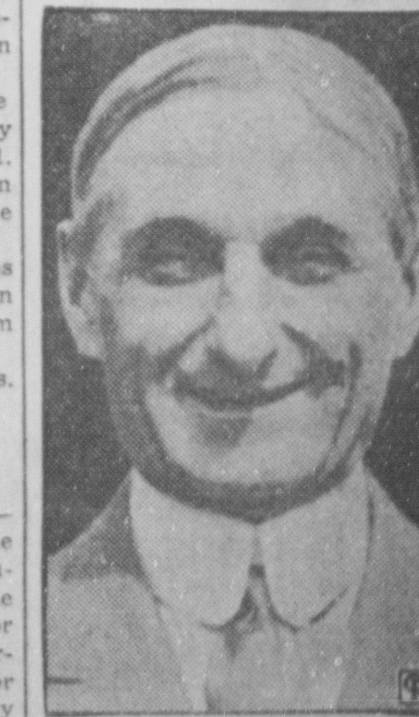

Smith apparently carried 36 counties, Johnston 10 counties.

Returns from practically two-thirds of the California's 12,438 precincts showed Downey, Sacramento attorney and one time leader in Upton Sinclair's epic movement, was more than 30,000 votes ahead of the 74-year-old McAdoo who had been favored to win 2 to 1 because of the President's activity in his behalf.

Service

STELLAR FILMS BOOKED

"Alexander's Ragtime Band"
Being Sought For
Sept. 18

The Pickaway Amusement Co., Louis A. Martin manager, Thursday, takes over operation of the Grand theatre, Pickney and Court streets, from Walker Baughman, who has been engaged in the entertainment business in Circleville since the 30's. Mr. Baughman plans to retire.

The new operators, pledged to provide Circleville and Pickaway county the best the amusement world can offer, have booked the hilarious "Kentucky Moonshine", starring the Ritz brothers, starting next Sunday. On Wednesday and Thursday next week the brilliant Danielle Darrieux appears in "The Rage of Paris", a picture that has been clicking in the larger cities. Mr. Martin said Wednesday that as soon as present contract commitments are completed local moviegoers will be permitted to see top notch pictures at the same time that they are released in all metropolitan amusement centers.

"We intend to leave nothing undone," Mr. Martin declared, "to give Circleville and Pickaway county the best in entertainment. As soon as our commitments have been completed we will show outstanding pictures at the same time that they are released in much larger cities. Stage attractions will be booked at an early date, and we will contract radio stars, too, as soon as they can be obtained."

Price Scale Unchanged

The theatre management is continuing the same price scale that has been prevailing at theatre, 25 cents for the main floor, 20 cents for the first balcony and 15 cents for the second balcony for adults. Children will be admitted for 10 cents at all times.

Daily matinees will be started in the next two weeks. Mr. Martin is making every effort to obtain "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the outstanding picture of the year, for showing starting Sept. 18. The movie is rated as "tops" among releases from Hollywood in 1938.

Other prize pictures being booked and their dates are Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Broadway", Sept. 25; "Letter of Introduction", starring Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Andrea Leeds and Adolph Menjou, Sept. 11, 12 and 13; "Josette", with Simone Simon, on Sept. 28-29, and the following productions for early showing in October, "My Lucky Star", Sonja Henie; "Room Service", the new Marx brothers comedy; "Three Blind Mice", Loretta Young and Joel McCrea; "Always Goodbye", Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall, and others.

METS CHILD DIES

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Ashville Christ Union church for Russell David Mets, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mets, Harrison township. The child died at 12:20 a. m. Wednesday. The Rev. James Hicks will officiate with burial in South Bloomfield cemetery by E. F. Schlegel.

Within the last few days real estate deals have been unusually brisk. Howard Whitehead has purchased the Henry Kaiser dwelling on the West Side and is now busy remodeling and modernizing it to suit the needs of some one who may want to occupy it.

Fred Curry has sold his dwelling to Floyd Hook and has purchased from Mrs. Cynthia Roof the three lots near the N. & W. depot upon which, beginning soon, he will erect both a dwelling and a cement block factory building. Another party said yesterday that as soon as he could find a suitable location, he intended to build one of those much needed dwellings in Ashville.

Today is the last day of August and with the ending, S. C. Allison completes several years service as janitor, engineer and caretaker of the local school building and grounds. He is succeeded in this work by Frank Hudson and his helpers, who and if, they take the same good care of their charge as their predecessor has they will have done a good job of it. BAND TO PLAY THURSDAY AT STATE FAIRGROUNDS

The Pickaway county 4-H club band will return to the Ohio State Fair Thursday for an all-day engagement. The band played at the fair Sunday and was invited to return for another day.

Two Pickaway 4-H club members will participate in dress reviews Thursday. Frances Mae Hettlinger, Scioto township, will participate in a style revue for complete costumes. Harriette Hayes, New Holland, will take part in a dress revue.

Clothing and food demonstration teams will participate in contests on Friday.

The Miss Conrad employed by the board of education as Home Economics teacher Monday evening, is the fourth one hired for this place, the other three having received better compensation elsewhere. This one, though, is expected to remain, as she will begin her work next Tuesday.

Harry Sark and wife expect to complete their moving operations tomorrow, so Mrs. Sark said yesterday. Billy Cain is home from a Columbus hospital appendicitis operation and is reported as "getting along just fine."

What to us was more than just another conversation, we came up against down on Main-Long street corner, yesterday evening. As we figured it out, it was a good-while-ago school teacher telling a 3rd-grade boy youngster a few things that that "old school mom" who would be in charge of him now, didn't dare to do to him and was making it plain to the boy, who impressed us as being a very wide awake youngster, that she didn't dare use that "hot old pad" on any kids this year, so he had heard some one say. To us the boy seemed very interested in what the "old teacher" was telling him and said he'd tell all the other kids about it. Said he'd "got one" himself on an average of one a month last year and didn't like it so very well and was sure glad the "old thing" had been ordered out. Just as we are telling you, this conversation between these two, did occur in our hearing. No Newt Hollingshead fish story.

Pickaway Dairy Winner Of State Fair Prizes

Pickaway Dairy Association, Circleville, won second prize for creamery butter in prints and fourth for butter in tubs in the dairy and creamery contests at the Ohio State Fair.

In many cases the awards were made by fractions of a point, official results showed. The Circleville association received a grade of 93 on print.

The Miami Valley co-operative of Dayton won first prize for creamery butter in prints, with a score of 93.5, and Fairmont Creamery of Columbus third with 92.75.

Others finished as follows: 4, Lippincott Dairy, East Rochester; 5, Clover Dale Creamery, Milford Center; 6, Miami Dairy, Covington; 7, North Central Farm Bureau cooperative, Shelby.

Miami Valley Cooperative also was first in the division for creamery butter in tubs. Fairmont Creamery was second, Lippincott third, and North Central Farm Bureau cooperative, fifth.

In the division for dairy butter from farms, May Stevens of Route 6, Newark, was first with 92; Dollie V. Cletner, Route 1, Hebron, second with 91.75; Mrs. Alma England, Route 1, Pataskala, third with 91.50, and Niderdale Farms, Middletown, fourth with 91.25.

In the pasteurized milk class, Meyer Dairy Products Co., Cleveland, was first and Chesnut Ridge Dairy, Akron, second. Conner Products Co., Coshocton, was fifth.

Meyer Dairy also was first in the pasteurized cream class. Conner Dairy was second and Zehringhurst Dairy of Germantown third. Havenshire Dairy of Helena was first in the class for farm cottage cheese; Niderdale Farms of Middletown second, and Mrs. Charles C. Smith of New Lebanon, third.

Westerville Creamery was first in the class for factory cottage cheese; and Meadow Gold Dairy Products of Lima, second.

In the Swiss cheese class, E. F. Steiner of Baltic was first. Roy Herman of Sugarcreek, second; Ernest Mueller of Route 1, Dover, third; Alfred Boss of Sugarcreek, and Ernest Gross of Sugarcreek, fifth.

Niderdale Farms of Middletown was first in the raw cream and raw milk classes.

CLEAN LANDSCAPES
ONE of the biggest achievements of the world's fair New York City is preparing for may be "cleaning the faces" of surrounding cities, towns and countryside. J. H. Thayer, state tax commissioner in New Jersey, is one of the people trying to do something about it.
The highways of that state will be "literally plastered with signs of all shapes, sizes and colors," he warns, unless something is done in time. People who think it pays to deface scenery are already increasing their demand for permits, thinking to benefit by the heavy traffic while the fair is in progress.
He deplores the present lack of control over the "thousands of hot-dog stands, small lunch rooms or service stations which line the state's major roads on each side." Too many of them, he says, are "ugly and dirty and little more than crude shacks, which can only be considered eyesores."
It is strange that the American public has endured such evils so long. Not even the people who thus spoil the landscape benefit by it, because clutter doesn't attract business, but often repels it. One decent, artistic sign in front of a place of business is far better, for merely practical reasons, than forty ugly ones.

HALF-MILLION FOR HORSES
THE horse is not yet obsolete. Evidence of this is found in Australia, where a generous lover of animals left half a million dollars to build drinking troughs. There are about 400 of them built already in Victoria, and work will soon be extended to New South Wales.
An impressive thing about these troughs is that they are not for horses only. There is also a fountain for thirsty human beings above, and a small trough for dogs below. It seems strange, when you think of it, that so little provision has been made out of doors, in most places, for these two groups to quench their thirst. We could use, in America, thousands of drinking fountains for man and beast.

Now that short and ugly words are coming into social use, maybe we'll learn to do without long and ugly words—hospitalization and marketability and pseudo-psychological and nonassimilable, for instance.

When proletarians get into power, the first thing they do is turn the job over to a dictator.

Elections are not so simple as the day-after explanations try to make out.

World At A Glance

On the third anniversary of the date on which the Federal Social Security act became effective Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who was prominent among the statesmen who co-operated to draft the law, broadcast a talk in the course of which he said:
"Unless government recognizes and helps to make possible the opportunity for every industrious and honest individual to own property of his own, the lack of that opportunity will do more to spread communism than any number of communist orators and any amount of Communist propaganda. Unemployment, lack of opportunity, destitution, distress, despair—these are not oratory and propaganda, are the breeders of communism and revolt."
Exactly. If conditions are satisfactory folk are not going to want to change them for some new system. If they are unsatisfactory there is bound to be a demand for change, and no investigation of the demand for it is going to head off that demand.
HARDLY SATURATED
I suppose there are some Communist missionaries in this country. And some Fascists and Nazis. I don't see how they can be prevented from enfilading into any normally un-Communist, un-Fascist or un-Nazi organization, such as the C. I. O., the A. F. of L., any church membership or anything else.
Why, I know an esteemed fellow member of the congressional press gallery and of the National Press club—Lawrence Todd, Washington correspondent of the Telegraph Agency of the Union of Soviet Republics. Does that one membership prove that our press gallery and Press club are saturated with communism?
For that matter, Nazi and Fascist newspapers are represented in our journalistic ranks, too. These boys are more than welcome they are informative.
LEWIS VIEWPOINT
The whole nub of it is: There are not enough of them to win a shotgun.
I doubt that they are numerous enough to signify in any other setup.
When John L. Lewis was organizing industrial unionism he told me that he believed his plan to be the best antidote to communism, Naziism and fascism, and I'm convinced that he meant it. I question that any one of these groups has horned in since then sufficiently to signify.
THE FISH PROBE
Representative Hamilton Fish of

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.
ROOSEVELT'S PURGE CONTINUES
WASHINGTON—There is a big shock in store for Democratic politicians in all the Purge States.

They have been impatiently looking forward to the completion of the primaries in September as the end of the White House's purging operations. Once the primaries were out of the way the boys figured all would be forgiven and forgotten and they would be welcomed back as good Democrats once more.

Well, they are mistaken. The finish of the primaries will not finish the purge. It will be the start of a new and much tougher one. From then on the President intends to move in on the patronage office-holders who, as one White House intimate expresses it, have been "biting the hand that feeds them."

In other words, the henchmen of anti-New Deal Democratic Senators and Congressmen are slated for the axe.

Regardless of whether such men as Senators George of Georgia, Tydings of Maryland, and McCarran of Nevada win or lose in their primaries, the state machines they have built up through patronage obtained from the White House are going to be smashed by the White House.

Hereafter the test of an appointee to a key federal local job will not be who is sponsoring him but whether the appointee is a dependable White House supporter. And the test isn't only going to apply to the anti-Administrationites up for election this year.

It will apply to Vice President Jack Garner, Senator Burt Wheeler, Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, Senator Pat Harrison, Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina, and other anti-New Deal chieftains.

Behind the new White House strategy, of course, is 1940.

For a long time Roosevelt's liberal advisers have been telling him that it was hopeless to attempt to unseat anti-Administrationites on Capitol Hill if he persisted in arguing them with patronage ammunition in their home bailiwicks.

Opposition of federal appointees to various New Deal candidates, plus reports from all over the country that anti-Administration Democrats are using patronage to build up machines to oppose Roosevelt's control of the 1940 convention, finally convinced him that the purge should continue.

He told Jim Farley of his intention at the day-long conference between them at Hyde Park. Big Jim's reply was, "Whatever you say. You're the boss."

ICONOCLAST
Nazi Germany's gobbling up of Austria has made an iconoclast of Chairman Hutton Sumners of the House Judiciary Committee.

The veteran Texan was in one of the Capitol's stationary stores when he overheard a young woman ask a clerk to order a geographical globe for her. Bowing politely, Sumners interposed.

"Miss, if you will permit me, I wouldn't buy that globe just yet. I'd wait until those European countries get themselves straightened out. I ordered one of those globes a few months ago, and you know, before it was delivered it was out of date."

New York saw "red" spooks a few years ago and started an investigation of their activities similar to the one Representative Martin Dies of Texas is pushing now. It fizzled out as Dies' will presently.
Fish's case collapsed when, the New Yorker having been tipped off to a cache of subversive literature in a packing case in Baltimore, seized it and found it to contain nothing but two cabbage heads, AND DIES' INQUIRY
Suppose Dies does demonstrate that certain folk THINK so-and-so. What's he going to do about it?
I once asked this question of former Representative Arthur Free of California, a pastime "red" investigator. "Well," agreed Free, "as a lawyer, I admit that we have to PROVE our case by overt acts, but it's what they THINK that we try to convict them of."
Ditto Dies. What he's trying to prove is anti-American celebration.
What Representative Dies has undertaken to call his committee is the "committee on un-American activities."
It generally is known in Washington as the "un-American committee."

Remedying Defects Before Opening of School

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE discussed this week the preparation of the child who is first entering school, first, from the standpoint of protection against dangerous contagious diseases and, second, from the standpoint of effectiveness of vision.
But there are many other physical defects that should be considered.

The child at school is exposed to new responsibilities, and it should be ascertained that he comes to his competitive job, so far as possible, with a healthy and efficient body.

This, as Dr. Allen G. Ireland says, is decidedly the parents' job, and it is the most important way in which they can help the school to do better work. Learning means strain on every resource of the mind and body, and effectiveness is a matter of fitness; that is, physical and mental preparedness to do one's best. Teachers know how true that is. Too many of them are burdened with classes of unfit children.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Commonest Handicaps
The commonest handicaps, according to careful surveys, are: decayed teeth, sore gums, adenoids, diseased tonsils, defective vision, impaired hearing, and malnutrition. All of these can be remedied and the time to do it is before school opens. To wait until after school frequently means loss of time for the pupil and further postponement by the parent. Consult your physician and dentist now. Have these handicaps to good school work removed before your child gets out to a poor start in the new term.

The Parent-Teacher association is engaged in many excellent projects for the welfare of children. But in my opinion they are making one contribution which stands out above all others. I refer to the school lunch—either the mid-session milk luncheon or the organized hot luncheon at noon.

Never before has there been greater need for the Parent-Teacher associations to plan good and adequate school lunches. The economic conditions of recent years have deprived many households and their children of physical and emotional security. Food has been less plentiful and less wisely chosen. And in some cases, school boards have been compelled to withdraw financial support for the lunches.

AFRAID TO MARRY
HELEN WELSHIMER
Written for and Released by CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is stunned when Craig Denby, the man she loves, tells her on the phone that he has married a girl he met at a week-end house party. Afraid of marriage, Judy reflects she put Craig off once too many times. Then she phones her father's lawyers to learn the details of his financial crash, just announced in the newspapers, and talks with Ronald Birrell, a brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who has just joined the firm. Ronald both angers and fascinates Judy, doubting that she has the stamina to make it in New York and make her own way designing dresses which she says she likes to do. Judy's father tells her he is going west with her stepmother, assuming his daughter plans to join her mother abroad. Judy doesn't tell him her mother cabled, announcing other plans for the winter with her second husband.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4
PEOPLE PASSING on the street saw a slim girl, dark brown hair blowing in the cool autumn air, skirts whipped around slender ankles under a huge white polo coat. To them, she was buying a paper. Buying two papers.

They did not see her eyes. They were so frightened, so hurt, that the man who sold the papers looked away.
Judy hailed a taxicab. She could not go home just yet. She must stay outside where she could breathe. The top of the cab was rolled back. A dark blue sky, spangled with silver stars, hung over the city. A moon rolled along lazily, as though grown too big for its mission. Yet the night was misty. It might rain.

She opened the papers. Ah, there was Craig! The half-crooked grin she knew so well. The amused eyes. The keen glance. Craig, with the face of a strange girl in an inset. No, it was the other way around, of course. The girl took up most of the space and Craig was the inset. She laughed hysterically. To her Craig's face filled the page, obliterated the girl entirely.

Judy controlled herself, checked the laughter that wasn't laughter but a harsh, brittle sound. This girl had no right on this page. She was pretty. Probably she was sweet and appealing. She could make Craig feel that he was as necessary to her happiness as roses are to June, or—butter to a baked potato. She smiled over the homely simile. This was Mary.

She picked up the other paper. She leaned forward in sudden interest. It was her own picture that graced the front page. She turned to the story. It related briefly that the young society man, stock broker and polo player, had unexpectedly wedded a radio entertainer just as the Rogers' fortune crashed. It went on to explain that society had been expecting an engagement between Craig and Judy.

Ronald Birrell would read about this! She sat up in shocked surprise at the thought. But what if he did? Why should she care? She never would see the man again. She wouldn't have to face his pity.

She tapped the dividing glass between her seat and the cab driver's and asked him to take her home. Once there, she undressed and lay for a long time in a warm bath in the great white tub in the big green and white bathroom that belonged to her bedroom. She was rested and calm when the telephone rang.

Someone would be offering sympathy about the money or about Craig. Maybe she wouldn't answer. Yet all of the time she was slipping into a negligee and slippers and crossing the floor.

"Hello," she said softly.
"Judy!"
Her heart, turned over twice and began to roll down hill at the end of that voice. Resolutely she grabbed the wandering cardiac organ and restored it to its usual place. So Craig had called her.

"Yes, Craig. But I thought you were out at sea."
"I will be in half an hour. That is, maybe I won't be. Judy, this is terrible! I just heard. I've been such a selfish galoot, all wrapped up in my own affairs today, I forgot you said that you needed me when you called, until I saw those papers a while ago. I've been calling you for an hour. Where were you?"

Where were you? So often he had asked the question, and she had answered for, even though she would not marry him then, somehow it had seemed his right to know.

"Just on an errand," she answered. An errand, Craig, that was all about you, she added silently. I wanted to read about your marriage in the newspapers. You see, I have to believe you are gone, since you are, and I can't—I can't—

"I'm so sorry about the wheel of fortune spinning in the wrong direction. What can I do to help, Judy darling?"
"You're sweet to bother, Craig, but there isn't anything. We'll be fine."

"Of course you will be. Your father's one of the ablest men on the street. He'll come back. But, just at the moment, what are your plans?"
She spoke carefully. "My father thinks it best for me to join my mother."

"Soon, Judy?"
"Almost at once." (Only I won't be taking a boat, Craig. I'll be packing my trunks and my books and going to a rooming house somewhere, and hunting a job. Nobody will know it. Not you or my father or even Ronald Birrell.)

"I want to see you, Judy. May I drop by on the way to the boat?"
That would be wonderful—that would be terrible. . . . She hesitated. He spoke while she considered.

"I'm so sorry about the implications in the news stories, Judy. Everyone who knows us understands. But I was such a fool! I don't know why I plunged into matrimony this way. I should have done it decently and in order. But I didn't think you would need me."

"Do you love her, Craig?" Very gently Judy asked.
"Yes, Judy, I do." The simplicity told more than any lavish phrases might have done.

"Then be glad, Craig. Take love when it comes. I guess that's best. I'm just such a coward I can't believe it lasts."

"(But I almost did, Craig—almost. I would have married you, had you waited a few more hours. Now I know I was right. Love doesn't last, unless you get your heart broken and then it hurts and hurts the way mine is doing now. You taught me that, my dear.)"

Craig, not suspicious of the thoughts that were steeped so deeply behind the low words she spoke, answered:
"I hope some day someone will change your mind for you, Judy. Is there anything I can do now?"

"Just on an errand," she answered. An errand, Craig, that was all about you, she added silently. I wanted to read about your marriage in the newspapers. You see, I have to believe you are gone, since you are, and I can't—I can't—

"I'm so sorry about the implications in the news stories, Judy. Everyone who knows us understands. But I was such a fool! I don't know why I plunged into matrimony this way. I should have done it decently and in order. But I didn't think you would need me."

"Do you love her, Craig?" Very gently Judy asked.
"Yes, Judy, I do." The simplicity told more than any lavish phrases might have done.

"Then be glad, Craig. Take love when it comes. I guess that's best. I'm just such a coward I can't believe it lasts."

"(But I almost did, Craig—almost. I would have married you, had you waited a few more hours. Now I know I was right. Love doesn't last, unless you get your heart broken and then it hurts and hurts the way mine is doing now. You taught me that, my dear.)"

Craig, not suspicious of the thoughts that were steeped so deeply behind the low words she spoke, answered:
"I hope some day someone will change your mind for you, Judy. Is there anything I can do now?"

"Just on an errand," she answered. An errand, Craig, that was all about you, she added silently. I wanted to read about your marriage in the newspapers. You see, I have to believe you are gone, since you are, and I can't—I can't—

"I'm so sorry about the wheel of fortune spinning in the wrong direction. What can I do to help, Judy darling?"
"You're sweet to bother, Craig, but there isn't anything. We'll be fine."

"Of course you will be. Your father's one of the ablest men on the street. He'll come back. But, just at the moment, what are your plans?"
She spoke carefully. "My father thinks it best for me to join my mother."

"Soon, Judy?"
"Almost at once." (Only I won't be taking a boat, Craig. I'll be packing my trunks and my books and going to a rooming house somewhere, and hunting a job. Nobody will know it. Not you or my father or even Ronald Birrell.)

"I want to see you, Judy. May I drop by on the way to the boat?"
That would be wonderful—that would be terrible. . . . She hesitated. He spoke while she considered.

CLEAN LANDSCAPES

ONE of the biggest achievements of the world's fair New York City is preparing for may be "cleaning the faces" of surrounding cities, towns and countryside. J. H. Thayer, state tax commissioner in New Jersey, is one of the people trying to do something about it.

The highways of that state will be "literally plastered with signs of all shapes, sizes and colors," he warns, unless something is done in time. People who think it pays to deface scenery are already increasing their demand for permits, thinking to benefit by the heavy traffic while the fair is in progress.

He deplores the present lack of control over the "thousands of hot-dog stands, small lunch rooms or service stations which line the state's major roads on each side." Too many of them, he says, are "ugly and dirty and little more than crude shacks, which can only be considered eyesores."

It is strange that the American public has endured such evils so long. Not even the people who thus spoil the landscape benefit by it, because clutter doesn't attract business, but often repels it. One decent, artistic sign in front of a place of business is far better, for merely practical reasons, than forty ugly ones.

HALF-MILLION FOR HORSES

THE horse is not yet obsolete. Evidence of this is found in Australia, where a generous lover of animals left half a million dollars to build drinking troughs. There are about 400 of them built already in Victoria, and work will soon be extended to New South Wales.

An impressive thing about these troughs is that they are not for horses only. There is also a fountain for thirsty human beings above, and a small trough for dogs below. It seems strange, when you think of it, that so little provision has been made out of doors, in most places, for these two groups to quench their thirst. We could use, in America, thousands of drinking fountains for man and beast.

Now that short and ugly words are coming into social use, maybe we'll learn to do without long and ugly words—hospitalization and marketability and pseudo-psychological and nonassimilable, for instance.

When proletarians get into power, the first thing they do is turn the job over to a dictator.

Elections are not so simple as the day-after explanations try to make out.

World At A Glance

On the third anniversary of the date on which the Federal Social Security act became effective Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who was prominent among the statesmen who co-operated to draft the law, broadcast a talk in the course of which he said:

"Unless government recognizes and helps to make possible the opportunity for every industrious and honest individual to own property of his own, the lack of that opportunity will do more to spread communism than any number of communist orators and any amount of Communist propaganda. Unemployment, lack of opportunity, destitution, distress, despair—these are not oratory and propaganda, are the breeders of communism and revolt."

Exactly. If conditions are satisfactory folk are not going to want to change them for some new system. If they are unsatisfactory there is bound to be a demand for change, and no investigation of the demand for it is going to head off that demand.

HARDLY SATURATED

I suppose there are some Communist missionaries in this country. And some Fascists and Nazis. I don't see how they can be prevented from enfilting into any normally un-Communist, un-Fascist or un-Nazi organization, such as the C. I. O., the A. F. of L., any church membership or anything else.

Why, I know an esteemed fellow member of the congressional press gallery and of the National Press club—Lawrence Todd, Washington correspondent of the Telegraph Agency of the Union of Soviet Republics. Does that one membership prove that our press gallery and Press club are saturated with communism?

For that matter, Nazi and Fascist newspapers are represented in our journalistic ranks, too. These boys are more than welcome they are informative.

LEWIS VIEWPOINT

The whole nub of it is: There are not enough of them to wad a shotgun.

I doubt that they are numerous enough to signify in any other set-up.

When John L. Lewis was organizing industrial unionisms he told me that he believed his plan to be the best antidote to communism, Naziism and fascism, and I'm convinced that he meant it. I question that any one of these groups has horned in since then sufficiently to signify.

THE FISH PROBE

Representative Hamilton Fish of

New York saw "red" spooks a few years ago and started an investigation of their activities similar to the one Representative Martin Dies of Texas is pushing now. It fizzled out as Dies' will presently.

Fish's case collapsed when, the New Yorker having been tipped off to a cache of subversive literature in a packing case in Baltimore, seized it and found it to contain nothing but two cabbage heads.

AND DIES' INQUIRY

Suppose Dies does demonstrate that certain folk THINK so-and-so. What's he going to do about it?

I once asked this question of former Representative Arthur Free of California, a pastime "red" investigator. "Well," agreed Free, "as a lawyer, I admit that we have to PROVE our case by overt acts, but it's what they THINK that we try to convict them of."

Ditto Dies. What he's trying to prove is anti-American celebration. What Representative Dies has undertaken to call his committee is the "committee on un-American activities."

It generally is known in Washington as the "un-American committee."

ROOSEVELT'S PURGE CONTINUES

WASHINGTON—There is a big shock in store for Democratic politicians in all the Purge States.

They have been impatiently looking forward to the completion of the primaries in September as the end of the White House's purging operations. Once the primaries were out of the way the boys figured all would be forgiven and forgotten and they would be welcomed back as good Democrats once more.

Well, they are mistaken.

The finish of the primaries will not finish the purge. It will be the start of a new and much tougher one. From then on the President intends to move in on the patronage office-holders who, as one White House intimate expresses it, have been "biting the hand that feeds them."

In other words, the henchmen of anti-New Deal Democratic Senators and Congressmen are slated for the axe.

Regardless of whether such men as Senators George of Georgia, Tydings of Maryland, and McCarran of Nevada win or lose in their primaries, the state machines they have built up through patronage obtained from the White House are going to be smashed by the White House.

Hereafter the test of an appointee to a key federal local job will not be who is sponsoring him but whether the appointee is a dependable White House supporter. And the test isn't only going to apply to the anti-Administrationites up for election this year.

It will apply to Vice President Jack Garner, Senator Burt Wheeler, Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, Senator Pat Harrison, Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina, and other anti-New Deal chieftains.

1940

Behind the new White House strategy, of course, is 1940.

For a long time Roosevelt's liberal advisers have been telling him that it was hopeless to attempt to unseat anti-Administrationites on Capitol Hill if he persisted in arguing them with patronage ammunition in their home bailiwicks.

Opposition of federal appointees to various New Deal candidates, plus reports from all over the country that anti-Administration Democrats are using patronage to build up machines to oppose Roosevelt's control of the 1940 convention, finally convinced him that the purge should continue.

He told Jim Farley of his intention at the day-long conference between them at Hyde Park. Big Jim's reply was, "Whatever you say. You're the boss."

ICONOCLAST

Nazi Germany's gobbling up of Austria has made an iconoclast of Chairman Hatton Sumners of the House Judiciary Committee.

The veteran Texan was in one of the Capitol's stationary stores when he overheard a young woman ask a clerk to order a geographical globe for her. Bowing politely, Sumners interposed.

"Miss, if you will permit me, I wouldn't buy that globe just yet. I'd wait until those European countries get themselves straightened out. I ordered one of those globes a few months ago, and you know, before it was delivered it was out of date."

Remedying Defects Before Opening of School

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE discussed this week the preparation of the child who is first entering school, first, from the standpoint of protection against dangerous contagious diseases and, second, from the standpoint of effectiveness of vision.

But there are many other physical defects that should be considered. The child at school is exposed to new responsibilities, and it should be ascertained that he comes to his competitive job, so far as possible, with a healthy and efficient body.

This, as Dr. Allen G. Ireland says, is decidedly the parents' job, and it is the most important way in which they can help the school to do better work. Learning means strain on every resource of the mind and body, and effectiveness is a matter of fitness; that is, physical and mental preparedness to do one's best. Teachers know how true that is. Too many of them are burdened with classes of unfit children.

Commonest Handicaps
The commonest handicaps, according to careful surveys, are: decayed teeth, sore gums, adenoids, diseased tonsils, defective vision, impaired hearing, and malnutrition. All of these can be remedied and the time to do it is before school opens.

To wait until after school frequently means loss of time for the pupil and further postponement by the parent. Consult your physician and dentist now. Have these handicaps to good school work removed before your child gets off to a poor start in the new term.

The Parent-Teacher association is engaged in many excellent projects for the welfare of children. But in my opinion they are making one contribution which stands out above all others. I refer to the school lunch—either the mid-session milk luncheon or the organized hot luncheon at noon.

Never before has there been greater need for the Parent-Teacher associations to plan good and adequate school lunches. The economic conditions of recent years have deprived many households and their children of physical and emotional security. Food has been less plentiful and less wisely chosen. And in some cases, school boards have been compelled to withdraw financial support for the luncheons.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
J. W. C.: "Will you please give a diet list for one who has amoebic dysentery?"

Answer: There is no specific diet for amoebic dysentery, but while the inside of the intestines are still raw, it would be advisable to eat only soft food with no residue—avoid vegetables, fruits, except fruit juices and stringy meats. When healing is complete a general diet is advisable.

O. B.: "I was so unfortunate as to eat a cracker which had red ants on it. What effect will they have on my system? I imagine I feel them crawling under my skin."

Answer: Your imagination is working overtime. They were killed by your digestive juices within three minutes of the time you swallowed them.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

Written for and Released by
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is stunned when Craig Denby, the man she loves, tells her on the phone that he has married a girl he met at a week-end house party. Afraid of marriage, Judy reflects she put Craig off once too many times. Then she phones her father's lawyers to learn the details of his financial crash, just announced in the newspapers, and talks with Ronald Birrell, a brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who has just joined the firm. Ronald both angers and fascinates Judy, doubting that she has the stamina to remain in New York and make her own way designing dresses which she says she likes to do. Judy's father tells her he is going west with her stepmother, assuming his daughter plans to join her mother abroad. Judy doesn't tell him her mother cabled, announcing other plans for the winter with her second husband.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4

PEOPLE PASSING on the street saw a slim girl, dark brown hair blowing in the cool autumn air, skirts whipped around slender ankles under a huge white polo coat. To them, she was buying a paper. Buying two papers.

They did not see her eyes. They were so frightened, so hurt, that the man who sold the papers looked away.

Judy hailed a taxicab. She could not go home just yet. She must stay outside where she could breathe. The top of the cab was rolled back. A dark blue sky, spangled with silver stars, hung over the city. A moon rolled along lazily, as though grown too big for its mission. Yet the night was misty. It might rain.

She opened the papers. Ah, there was Craig! The half-crooked grin she knew so well. The amused eyebrows. The keen glance. Craig, with the face of a strange girl in an inset. No, it was the other way around, of course. The girl took up most of the space and Craig was the inset. She laughed hysterically. To her Craig's face filled the page, obliterated the girl entirely.

Judy controlled herself, checked the laughter that wasn't laughter but a harsh, brittle sound. This girl had no right on this page. She was pretty. Probably she was sweet and appealing. She could make Craig feel that he was as necessary to her happiness as roses are to June, or—butter to a baked potato. She smiled over the home-simile. This was Mary.

She picked up the other paper. She leaned forward in sudden interest. It was her own picture that graced the front page. She turned to the story. It related briefly that the young society man, stock broker and polo player, had unexpectedly wedded a radio entertainer just as the Rogers' fortune crashed. It went on to explain that society had been expecting an engagement between Craig and Judy.

Ronald Birrell would read about this! She sat up in shock and surprise at the thought. But what if he did? Why should she care? She never would see the man again. She wouldn't have to face his pity.

She tapped the dividing glass between her seat and the cab driver's and asked him to take her home. Once there, she undressed and lay for a long time in a warm bath in the great white tub in the big green and white bathroom that belonged to her bedroom. She was rested and calm when the telephone rang.

Someone would be offering sympathy about the money or about Craig. Maybe she wouldn't answer. Yet all of the time she was slipping into a negligee and slippers and crossing the floor.

"Hello," she said softly.

"Judy?" Her heart turned over twice and began to roll down hill at the sound of that voice. Resolutely she grabbed the wandering cardiac orator and restored it to its usual place. So Craig had called her.

"Yes, Craig. But I thought you were out at sea."

"I will be in half an hour. That is, maybe I won't be. Judy, this is terrible! I just heard. I've been such a selfish galoot, all wrapped up in my own affairs today, I forgot you said that you needed me when you called, until I saw those papers a while ago. I've been calling you for an hour. Where were you?"

Where were you? So often he had asked that question, and she had answered for, even though she would not marry him then, somehow it had seemed his right to know.

"Just on an errand," she answered.

answered. An errand, Craig, that was all about you, she added absently. I wanted to read about your marriage in the newspapers. You see, I have to believe you are gone, since you are, and I can't—I can't...

"I'm so sorry about the wheel of fortune spinning in the wrong direction. What can I do to help, Judy darling?"

That would be wonderful—that would be terrible. . . . She hesitated. He spoke while she considered.

"I'm so sorry about the implications in the news stories, Judy. Everyone who knows us understands. But I was such a fool! I don't know why I plunged into matrimony this way. I should have done it decently and in order. But I didn't think you would need me."

"Do you love her, Craig?" Very gently Judy asked.

"Yes, Judy, I do." The simplicity told more than any lavish phrases might have done.

"Then be glad, Craig. Take love when it comes. I guess that's best. I'm just such a coward I can't believe it lasts."

(But I almost did, Craig—almost. I would have married you, had you waited a few more hours. Now I know I was right. Love doesn't last, unless you get your heart broken and then it hurts and hurts, the way mine is doing now. You taught me that, my dear.)

Craig, not that suspicious of the thoughts that were steeped so deeply behind the low words she spoke, answered:

"I hope some day someone will change your mind for you, Judy. Is there anything I can do now?"

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A story of young love strong enough to win over a notorious past is now showing at the Cliftona Theatre in "Stolen Heaven." Paramount's romantic drama which stars Olympe Bradna and Gene Raymond.

Olympe, who is hailed as "the first star of 1938," heads the cast in the role of a misled young jewel-thief who, with her lover, Raymond, tries to build a completely new life in a country hide-away until her past indiscretions catch up with her and threaten her reputation and her happiness.

Olympe Bradna is the seventeen-year-old French actress who caused such a sensation after George Raft discovered her and got her a part in "Souls at Sea." Since then she has played in "Last Train from Madrid" and "College Holiday," but "Stolen Heaven" marks the first production in which she has been starred.

The distinguished Lewis Stone has an important part as an aged pianist who befriends the young lovers when all the world seems to turn against them and who prevents them from ruining their lives with a single mistake.

Glenda Farrell, the blonde who wise-cracked her way through "Gold Diggers of 1937," and Porter Hall, who shot the hero in "The Plainsman," and wrecked banks in "Wells Fargo," play the young couple's daring confederates.

AT THE GRAND

Romance, tragedy and wild adventure march hand in hand in Universal's "Sinners in Paradise," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Thursday, for a 3-day stand.

Madge Evans, John Boles and Bruce Cabot have the principal roles with Marion Martin, Gene Lockhart, Nana Bryant, Charlotte Wynters, Milburn Stone, Morgan Conway, Donald Barry and Willie Fung also prominently cast.

The picture relates the vast changes in character that occur when nine passengers on a trans-Pacific airliner are cast away on an island inhabited only by a doctor and his Chinese servant. The doctor is hiding from the law because he has killed the man who led his sister to her doom.

The castaways are an oddly assorted crew. First there is a dissatisfied wife who has left her husband and plans to nurse in the Orient. The doctor falls in love with her, but forces her to seek the right path when rescue looms.

Another castaway is one of the richest girls in the world; another is a motherly fortune telling soul. Others include a beautiful blonde fleeing from a gambling investigation; a racketeer; a pompous politician; two unscrupulous munitions salesmen, and a resourceful steward on the airliner.

"Sinners in Paradise" is one half of a double feature program.

ilton, Miss Worthy Anderson and Mrs. Isaac Rossiter of the Circleville community spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Quillen at their home near Ashville.

ALL-STARS FACE BAUGH AND PRO SQUAD TONIGHT

How To Stop Passing Of Slinging Sam Problem For McMillen

CHICAGO Aug. 31—(UP)—The odds were 2 to 1 today that Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Washington's world champion Redskins would outpass Byron (Whizzer) White or anyone else in the fifth annual charity all-star game to-night under the floodlights of Soldier field.

The Whizzer, a passing, running, kicking genius from Colorado, is the chief offensive hope of the collegiate squad picked by 8,000,000 fans in a nationwide poll.

But remember Baugh? His touchdown pass last Summer gave the all-stars their only victory of this series. And his stunning barrage of passes in the bitter cold last Winter, perhaps the greatest performance ever seen, routed the Chicago Bears, 28 to 21, in the National league playoff.

Baugh will be a marked man and the all-stars mark them well. In previous games they manhandled Big Bronko Nagurski of the Chicago Bears, kept Earl (Dutch) Clark of the Detroit Lions well covered and last year completely stopped Arnold Herber, one of the best forward passers in the league and sparkplug of the Green Bay Packers.

Defense Secret

What defense Coach Bo McMillin of Indiana and his staff of four have worked out to stop Baugh has been kept secret. It may be tricky. Bo usually is. His five man backfield at Indiana is an example of that. One thing is sure, Baugh will be rushed as he hasn't been rushed since he left Texas Christian university.

The all-stars were a trifle weaker. The starting squad lacks balance. There is a weakness at the tackles and injury to Marty Schreyer of Purdue made it worse. Both Schreyer and Perry Schwartz, California's great end, will be unable to play. Fred Shirley, Nebraska tackle, will replace Schreyer and John Kovatch of Northwestern likely will start at Schwartz' end.

The backfield probably will be juggled shortly after the kickoff. Andy Pupils of Notre Dame, Andy Uram, Minnesota, Cecil Isbell, Purdue and Frank Patrick of Pittsburgh will start but Indiana's Corbey Davis, best battering back on the squad, White, Pinky Rohm of Louisiana State, Joe Kilgore of Alabama, Andy Farkas, Detroit, Jack Robbins of Arkansas, and Elmore Hackney, Duke, all are ready to step in.

A surprise passing combination may be Robbins and Jim Benton, rangy end, who filled the air with footballs at Arkansas for three seasons. If the all-stars can score first Jim McDonald of Ohio State and Fred Vanzo, Northwestern, two alert giants, may be rushed in to protect—a maneuver the collegians used a year ago when Baugh's pass to Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State scored in the second period.

Legal Notice

HEALTH LEAGUES TO DISCUSS SALE OF ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS SEALS

COUNTIANS GO TO NEWARK FOR STATE CONFAB

Thanksgiving Is Day Set For Opening Of Big Campaign

Representatives of the Pickaway County Public Health League plan to attend a meeting at the Licking County Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Newark on Thursday, Sept. 8, to discuss plans for the coming Christmas Seal campaign to continue the fight against tuberculosis. The campaign opens on Thanksgiving Day. This meeting is the first of a series of 17 similar district meetings.

Mrs. George Crites, S. Court street, is chairman of the Pickaway County Health League, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, Pinckney street, representative director.

Dr. Louis Mitchell, Newark, president of the Licking County Public Health League, will preside at the meeting which will begin at ten o'clock and continue into the afternoon after a luncheon meeting.

Dr. Robert G. Paterson, Columbus, executive secretary of the Ohio Public Health Association, will lead the discussions and will be assisted by Arthur H. German, field secretary of the same association.

Other organizations which will send representatives to the meeting include: Fairfield County Tuberculosis and Health Association; Franklin County Christmas Seal Committee of the Columbus Tuberculosis Society; Hooking County Public Health League; Licking County Public Health League and Perry County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

DERRINGER AND MOORE ON HILL AS REDS CLIMB

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31—(UP)—The unpredictable Cincinnati Reds apparently had jumped out of their latest slump today after twice defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers with timely hitting but their chances of overtaking the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates were almost hopeless.

Although the percentage disclosed the fourth-place McKeechie men seven games behind the Buccaneers, baseball old-timers kept their eyes on the "game lost" column where the Reds were nine behind the leader.

Moreover, the Pirates themselves seemed to have snapped out of the doldrums and in addition to good hitting were getting effective pitching. The Reds latest spurt, which brought 5 to 4 and 7 to 4 victories over the Dodgers Tuesday, has been sparked by the emergence of Frank McCormick, Lew Riggs and Ival Goodman from hitting slumps.

McKeechie's hurling corps was still crippled with Johnny Vander Meer and Lee Grissom on the hospital list.

The two current Cincinnati "reliables", Paul Derringer and Lloyd (Whitney) Moore, travelled the route in each game Tuesday but it required two late rallies by the hitters to pull out the victories. It was Derringer's 18th win against 10 losses and Moore's sixth victory against two defeats.

Now, it seems, the South is to be saved by pressure cookers, enabling farm families to can stuff for the winter.

vocate of the controversial "ham and eggs" pension plan which, its proponents declare, will provide $30 every Thursday for life to all persons 50 years of age or older. President Roosevelt, reportedly at McAdoo's request, came out last week against the plan, characterizing it as "Utopian."

Crushed, McAdoo retired to his Montecito home, Santa Barbara, without making a statement. His supporters, however, conceded it "would be extremely difficult to overcome Downey's lead."

The New Deal, however, was apparently victorious in the contest for seats in the house of representatives. Seventeen incumbents, most of them New Dealers, apparently had won re-election. The state's three remaining seats were uncontested.

Returns from 6,341 of the state's 12,438 precincts gave:
Downey, 157,162.
McAdoo, 126,587.

U. S. REQUESTED TO STOP JAPAN, CHINA WARFARE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31—(UP)—Foreigners in China expressed increasing alarm today over Japan's economic blockade of the Yangtze valley and the possibility that Japanese troops would occupy the International Settlement in event war breaks out in Europe.

American business and missionary representatives, uniting for probably the first time in the Far East, urged the United States to use every possible means of ending the China war and of restoring foreign rights and property in Japanese-dominated areas.

British and French residents were concerned that hostilities in Europe which might involve Italy would lead to Japanese occupation of the International settlement and French Concession.

The second round of the sheep shearing contest and the third round of the milkmaids' contest also were scheduled today.

In yesterday's senior sheep-shearing contest, Richard Hoffman of Greenville was first, Roland Burkhart of Pandora second, and Delmar Earich of Malta third. The grand champion will be chosen Friday.

Milking Finals Tonight
Gaulthine Culler, 17, of Medina, won the second round of the milking derby last night, palling 12.4 pounds in three minutes. She and Eleanor Sweitzer, 16, of Rochester, who finished second, will compete in the finals Thursday.

Rettie Rupprecht of Marysville was third. Alii Hynninen of Dorset won the costume prize and Helen Flickinger of Wooster was second.

When Prof. C. L. Blackburn, the contest director, whistled to start the contest, several of the sows reared and general confusion followed. Vera Faye Inbody of McComb was knocked over by her cow.

Stella, 2-year-old mare shown by Charles A. Wentz & Sons, Upper Sandusky, was named grand and junior champion Belgian mare in the horse judging.

W. M. Staley & Son, Marysville, had the champion Merina ram and ewe. George W. Deeds, Pataskala, had the best Merino flocks and pen of lambs.

The Shenandoah juvenile grange of Mansfield won first prize among junior fair exhibits. Others ranked as follows: London, Convey, Laurelville, Logan, Clinton, Continental, Kenton, Van Wert and North Fairfield.

FIVE TO LEAVE ON LONG TRIP TO WEST COAST

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donnelly, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, the Misses Emma and Laura Mader of Circleville will leave Thursday for a western motor trip making their first stop at Yellowstone National park. From there they will go to Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, where they will be guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Burr Bostwick. Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick will join them on a trip to Portland, Ore., where the party will attend the annual encampment of all veterans of the Spanish-American War, which convenes in that city, September 11-15.

Mr. Bostwick, who is a former resident of Circleville, was captain of Co. M, 4th O. V. I. of Circleville which saw service in Porto Rico during the Spanish-American War. Mr. Donnelly served as corporal in the same company.

After the convention the party will motor to San Francisco and down the coast to Los Angeles to attend the National convention of the American Legion during the week of Sept. 18. They expect to return home in about six weeks.

F. D. REVEALS PREDICTING SMITH'S EDGE AT 40,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(UP)—President Roosevelt, commenting on the primary victory of his political foe, Sen. Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, said today: "It is often true that it takes a long time to bring the past up to the present."

Mr. Roosevelt, it was revealed, prepared the one paragraph statement at the White House today. He wrote it out after going to a side table in his room and opening an envelope in which he had sealed a prediction of the South Carolina primary figures.

Secretary Stephen T. Early said that the President's figures had given South Carolina to Smith by 40,000 votes.

The second round of the sheep shearing contest and the third round of the milkmaids' contest also were scheduled today.

In yesterday's senior sheep-shearing contest, Richard Hoffman of Greenville was first, Roland Burkhardt of Pandora second, and Delmar Earch of Malta third. The grand champion will be chosen Friday.

Milking Finals Tonight Gaultine Culler, 17, of Medina, won the second round of the milking derby last night, pailing 12.4 pounds in three minutes. She and Eleanor Sweitzer, 16, of Rochester, who finished second, will compete in the finals Thursday.

Rettie Rupprecht of Marysville was third. Alli Hynninen of Dorset won the costume prize and Helen Flickinger of Wooster was second.

When Prof. C. L. Blackburn, the contest director, whistled to start the contest, several of the sows reared and general confusion followed. Vera Faye Inbody of McComb was knocked over by her cow.

Stella, 2-year-old mare shown by Charles A. Wentz & Sons, Upper Sandusky, was named grand and junior champion Belgian mare in the horse judging.

W. M. Staley & Son, Marysville, had the champion Merina ram and ewe. George W. Deeds, Pataskala, had the best Merino flocks and pen of lambs.

The Shenandoah juvenile grange of Mansfield won first prize among junior fair exhibitors. Others ranked as follows: London, Convoys, Laureville, Logan, Clinton, Continental, Kenton, Van Wert and North Fairfield.

caused a dam in the Nami river to burst, devastating three villages and property worth $100,000. Hundreds of cattle were destroyed.

FIVE TO LEAVE ON LONG TRIP TO WEST COAST

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donnelly, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, the Misses Emma and Laura Mader of Circleville will leave Thursday for a western motor trip making their first stop at Yellowstone National park. From there they will go to Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, where they will be guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Burr Bostwick. Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick will join them on a trip to Portland, Ore., where the party will attend the annual encampment of all veterans of the Spanish-American War, which convenes in that city, September 11-15.

Mr. Bostwick, who is a former resident of Circleville, was captain of Co. M, 4th O. V. I. of Circleville which saw service in Porto Rico during the Spanish-American War. Mr. Donnelly served as corporal in the same company.

After the convention the party will motor to San Francisco and down the coast to Los Angeles to attend the National convention of the American Legion during the week of Sept. 18. They expect to return home in about six weeks.

F. D. REVEALS PREDICTING SMITH'S EDGE AT 40,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(UP)—President Roosevelt, commenting on the primary victory of his political foe, Sen. Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, said today:

"It is often true that it takes a long long time to bring the past up to the present."

Mr. Roosevelt, it was revealed, prepared the one paragraph statement at the White House today. He wrote it out after going to a side table in his room and opening an envelope in which he had sealed a prediction of the South Carolina primary figures.

Secretary Stephen T. Eearly said that the President's figures had given South Carolina to Smith by 40,000 votes.

DOG RABID, REPORT Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, received a positive report of rabies from the state department of health, Wednesday, on the dog of Dr. Charles Davis, New Holland, recently taken to Columbus for observation.

Monday Club Preparing To Begin Year's Work

Initial Session Scheduled for Sept. 12

"Current Trends of Thought" will be the general subject for the study of Monday club during the winter. Mrs. Hulse Hays, new president, revealed some of the interesting details of the year's program which will open at the meeting, Monday, Sept. 12.

There will be four divisions of the general subject, the division of Government under the chairmanship of Miss Alice A. May; Home Arts, Miss Elizabeth Dunlap; Literature, Miss Neil Weldon; Music, Mrs. Adrain Yates.

Dr. Peter Odgard, Professor of Political Science, Ohio State university will be guest speaker at the first meeting, when the Division of Government will present the program. His topic will be "The Constitution of the United States and What It Means Today."

Other guest speakers to be heard during the winter will include Stokes McCune of the Players' Club, Columbus; Frank Fischer, superintendent, of Circleville schools, who will talk on "Problems of Modern Education;" Mrs. Neil Hallock, interior decorator of Columbus, whose subject will be "New Fabrics and Their Uses"; The Lancaster Music Club will appear on one of the programs. Samuel Johnson, dramatic coach of Circleville high school will direct a one act play to be presented by the club members.

The general subject of the Music Division will be "The Evolution of Music from the Classical School Through the Modern" and will include studies with descriptive music by the members. Under this division, Robert Barr of Columbus will appear in Deems Taylor's "The Highwayman" assisted by the Monday Club chorus.

Mrs. Tom Renick is first vice president of the organization, Mrs. Ray Davis, second vice president, Mrs. Orion King, recording secretary, Mrs. Howard N. Stevenson, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Charles T. Gilmore, treasurer, and with Mrs. Hays will enter on their new duties at the first session.

The program for the year was arranged under the direction of Miss Margaret Rooney, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Howard N. Stevenson and Mrs. Clark Will.

The members of the press committee for the current year are Miss Clara Littleton, chairman,
